SIR,

I have the honour to state that sorting for the Imperial Tables is expected to close in one of the two sections of the abstraction office before the end of this month and in the other section by the 20th of next month. What will then remain of the abstraction stage of the operations will be (i) the sorting for the information collected specially in the State regarding Vaccination and Rural, Cottage and Organised Industries and (ii) the compilation of the Imperial and the other Tables. I have been considering for some time how the completion of the work can be hastened and have the honour to make the following proposals in this behalf:-

(1) The number of compilers now sanctioned is 40. The full number has not yet been recruited as sorting has been going on and much supervision could not be given to the work of compilation. When sorting comes to a close more compilers can be employed without the work lacking supervision. It seems desirable to employ compilers up to a total of 64, the number depending upon the quantity of material that can be handled at one time. With a view to enable me to employ additional compilers as need may arise, I request that the number of compilers be fixed at 64.

(2) The sorting for the vaccination and Rural, Cottage and Organised Industries will be given to thirty picked sorters. They will do the work quicker and more accurately than the average sorter. As these sorters will be more or less of the same quality as the persons who will be retained as compilers they may be given for the short period that they will be employed on this work Rs.30/- a month as the compilers are.

(3) The places of compilers are now being filled by promotion from among the sorters. This is an advantage as they are familiar with the

the material to be handled. As the work has some peculiar difficulties and as the error by any one person will involve a great deal of searching in locating and correcting it, the selection for promotion has to be made mainly with reference to ability and aptitude for handling figures. In making these promotions, therefore, it will not be possible to observe strictly the rule of proportion as between general and special vacancies. This applies also the selection of the special sorters. I shall, however, keep the rule in view and obtain as many of persons of the backward classes as I can for both the special sorting and compilation. The rule of proportion does not apply to promotions and the period during which the compilers or special sorters are expected to work is only about two months. Yet as there is a possibility of the appointments of compilers being treated as original, I request approval to the course here indicated.

(4) To ensure accuracy along with speed it will be necessary to have a supervisor for every eight compilers. I shall therefore retain eight of the best supervisors when disbanding the sorting establishment.

2. The expenditure involved will be well within the budget of the department for the current year. The sorters who are not promoted as compilers and are not retained for the special sorting indicated in sub-para 2 above, and a corresponding proportion of supervisors will be disbanded as sorting is finished.

3. I have the honour to request that sanction or Government may be obtained to the proposals and communicated early.

I have the honour to be

Sir,

Your most obedient servant;

M. Venkatesalyengar
